OUR NEW
CARTOONIST

JENNER

Meet Jenner, the first of our new editorial cartoonists. Jenner is the pen name of Melbourne GP Dr Craig Hilton, who describes himself as a full-time doctor and part-time professional cartoonist.

He has been an Australian newspaper and magazine cartoonist for over 25 years, with recent credits including VicDoc, Bush Alert and the MJA. But his biggest body of work is the daily online comic strip Doc Rat, which is coming up to the mark of seven years, 2000 strips and 10 books.

As a doctor, he enjoys solving complex cases, writing decent referral letters and drawing happy pictures for the kiddies. As a cartoonist, he values the skills of cutting through to the heart of an argument and spotting the bits that are ridiculous.

Five years after the apology, was saving sorry enough?
